About 'Access All Areas'

"Equality is not about treating people the same, because different groups of people have different needs, different groups experience discrimination in different areas of life in different ways. Treating everyone the same can have the effect of being an indirect for of discrimination when it is clear that some groups have much greater needs than others.

Equality is about securing equality of opportunity, equality of participation and equality of outcome."

NCCRI, March 2003

Access All Areas was developed by a large group of youth work practitioners across the island of Ireland to be used in both the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland. These experts wrote and edited 11 individual chapters, 10 of which focus on a particular group of young people who frequently experience exclusion in their lives. The experts opted to gather their expertise in one publication because of their recognition that young people have multiple identities and should not be seen under one identity alone. The National Youth Council of Ireland and Youthnet Northern Ireland coordinated this publication.

Access All Areas Toolkit has been designed to be used by trained youth workers, by volunteer youth leaders, by directors and managers of youth services and others working with children and young people. It invites you to look at what support you need - at both leader and organisational level - to make sure that all young people in your community feel they belong and are actively participating in society.

Since Access All Areas was first developed in 2009 it has been used extensively and updated to respond to newly identified needs of those working with diverse young people. This new edition comes in 3 formats to allow for ease of use – a companion guide, a CD Rom with the full Toolkit, and a downloadable version (divided into individual specialised chapters). We have developed two new chapters since 2009.

The reasons we developed Access All Areas

Whilst much has been done in recent years to tackle inequality and to work for the inclusion of people from all backgrounds at all levels of society, discrimination is still a reality for many people.

Many young people face challenges in accessing services, achieving in education, living healthy lives, having a sense of well-being and making a full contribution to society. These challenges are often compounded by additional factors in a young person's life. This may be that they are from a minority ethnic background, are a young Traveller, identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender or have a disability. They may have been involved with the juvenile justice system, find themselves outside of education, training or employment, be a young parent or in the care system. It may be that young people are dealing with mental health issues in their life or they are the primary carer for a family member. Young people may find themselves restricted by gender stereotypes or vulnerable to discrimination based on their gender. Sometimes referred to as 'hard to reach', 'diverse' or 'seldom heard' the needs of these young people are explained in Access All Areas alongside valuable advice on how to fully include these young people in your organisation, whether you are involved in a small community-based youth group, a specialised youth group, or a youth project.

"When we aren't proactively being inclusive we are, in effect, perpetuating exclusion and inequality in our society."

Youth work is ideally placed to challenge inherent inequalities and to engage with young people from a range of backgrounds and to raise awareness of the diversity in society.

How is 'Access All Areas' structured?

Chapter 1 'Promoting inclusive youth work practice – organisational support' includes the various tools you will need at organisational level:

- A definition and deeper understanding of equality and inclusion
- An overview of youth work policy in relation to equality and inclusion
- An overview of legislation that aims to ensure equality and inclusion in youth work
- A master checklist to be used by youth leaders and managers
- A master checklist that young people can use to assess the youth activities they attend
- A discussion on collecting and using data (ethnic identifiers). A sample registration form is included.
- Using Access All Areas to carry out a regional audit

Chapters 2-11 all focus on a 'hard to reach' group of young people and are structured in the following way:

Demographics

Facts and figures about the particular group of young people

Terminology

Definitions of useful terms

Needs and Issues

Key needs and issues that have been identified by practitioners from current research and practice

How to develop inclusive practice

Practical guidelines and advice on being more inclusive of young people from the identified group

Checklist

A specialised checklist to self-assess your group or organisation and identify actions you can take

Contacts and resources

Useful contacts and resources to further your understanding and build key relationships with relevant organisations

Where do I start?

We recommend that you start with the Master Checklist (Chapter 1, Page 22) to assess where you are as an organisation or group. This will help you identify areas you can work on. If you want to take a more detailed examination of your service in light of a particular priority group (e.g. disability) then you can look at that chapter for information and support. Each chapter contains a more detailed checklist which can help you identify the additional actions to put in place to engage with that target group of young people.

After completing the master checklist or a specialist checklist from the end of a particular chapter - fill in an action plan with your team so that your work is given direction and a timeline to keep you on track. The information contained in each chapter will support you in carrying out your action plan.

It is useful to revisit the Toolkit on a regular basis to see what areas you can progress in next.

Don't get burdened down by the amount of information available – see Access All Areas as a reference and support document to facilitate you in reflective practice.

We also want to highlight that, although this toolkit is structured into chapters that relate to particular groups and identities, children and young people are not limited to labels but have multiple identities. This resource is not designed to box people into groupings, it advocates for a holistic approach in meeting the individual needs of young people. We hope that it demonstrates the value of developing a 'universal design approach' - a way of planning and delivering programmes that ensures, as far as possible, that it caters for as many people as possible, irrespective of their individual circumstances.

We wish you all the best using Access All Areas, we welcome your input and any changes you would like to see. We also offer training on using the Toolkit. If you would like to share your inclusive youth work stories with us we are collecting them to share and we are launching an award project if anyone would like to put themselves forward for inclusion.
